Human Factors Workshops

2-Day

Course objectives

This foundational course provides participants with the skills required to effectively manage various situations as a contributor in a multi-crew environment, using modern-day threat and error management philosophy, communication, and risk-management techniques.

Engage in interactive scenarios, case studies, and role-playing exercises, in a collaborative instructor- facilitated environment that aids development of crucial skills in leadership and followership.

Improve overall team performance, reduce errors, and enhance safety through better coordination and mutual support among crew members.
